Claud Garner's Third Novel 'Young Texans' Issued as Paperback

Claud W. Garner wrote me from his home in Weatherford, Texas, on September 10 that he was doing something unusual.

With two successful novels to his credit he is publishing his third one as an original "paperback." The new book, "The Young Texans," Signet No. T2155, will appear on the newsstands September 20.

If you wonder why the man who wrote "The Wetback" and "Cornbread Aristocrat" passed up the hard-cover format for a paperback edition you would find all the answers in his letter. Or, equally good, you may have read Herman Wouk's "Youngblood Hawk" — in which another author also discloses there is a first-class war on between authors and the rising costs and demands of the hard-cover publishing industry.

Claud Garner makes no bones about it — there's more money for the author in paperbacks, at less cost to the reading public. "The Young Texans" will sell for 75c — but a hard-cover edition would have been priced at $5.

But no apology is needed for the paperback format — it came of age years ago, now towering far above the hard-cover industry from which it sprang.

I read "The Young Texans" in two nights — Garner not only has the gift of characterization and factual details, but he is a master of suspense — the No. 1 factor of story-telling. Both his other books had it — but this is the fastest tale of all.

It's the story of a young girl swindled out of her mineral rights in the East Texas oil boom, about the time of the great depression, and her dedicated fight to even up things with a certain oil operator. She caught up with him in the West Texas boom, some years and 288 pages later.

Despite the tight and exciting narrative Garner has packed into his new book an encyclopedic knowledge of the leasing operations of the oil industry, with millions hanging on a good or bad guess — or a double-cross.

Group Wants to Cut Foreign Aid 20 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP)—A slash of about 20 per cent—$1,428,177,000—in new funds for the foreign aid program was recommended today by the House Appropriations Committee.

If sustained by the House later this week, the committee's action would give the aid program $5,906,852,000 in additional money for the current fiscal year instead of the $7,335,029,000 requested by President Kennedy.

The President had asked for about $211 million more than Congress had authorized in separate legislation prescribing financial limitations on the program for military and economic help to friendly nations.

The committee-imposed cut was as deep as Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., predicted several weeks ago. Passman, chairman of a subcommittee that drafted the aid money bill after several months of hearings, set a reduction goal of close to $1.5 billion at that time.

Even if Congress provided no new money this year, the committee said in a formal report accompanying the bill, there would be enough money left over from prior appropriations to finance the program for about 25 months. Most of the carryover, however, has been earmarked or obligated.

"The pipeline of unexpended funds is increasing at an alarming rate," the committee said, estimating the balance at $6.7 billion as of June 30, 1962.

The committee's report contained caustic criticism of some phases of the aid program and referred to expenditure estimates as "pie in the sky figures."

"An indeterminate but not inconsequential element of the program is the cost to borrow money which is so freely given away," the committee said. "It is a one-way street—the goods or services go out, the U.S. Treasury pays the bill, and the U.S. receives nothing of a tangible nature in return."

The program for the present year proposes economic assistance for 73 nations and seven foreign territories and possessions, and military aid for 58 countries. Some of the help, the committee complained, goes to neutral nations that have often criticized the United States and its allies but have refrained from criticizing the Soviet Union.

The committee wrote into the bill a ban against use of economic and military funds to assist "any nations whose government is based upon that theory of government known as communism." The prohibition was aimed at Poland and Czechoslovakia but a special exception was made for a hospital project in Poland.

In cutting $250 million from the $1.5 billion requested for direct military aid, the committee said the military part of the program has been overfunded in recent years. One nation, it commented, has been given enough rifles and carbines to provide two weapons.

New Red Demand in UN to Seat Communist China

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union today tossed into the General Assembly a new demand for the seating of Red China.

The Soviet move came a few hours before the 104-nation assembly opened its 17th session.

It paved the way for another bitter fight over the China representation issue which has been before the United Nations for more than a decade.

The Soviets also submitted another new assembly item calling for a world conference on trade.

There also were signs the Soviet Union plans an all-out blast at American policy on Cuba.

There appeared little chance the Kremlin's China proposal would fare better than it did a year ago, when it was rejected by a vote of 37 in favor and 48 against, with 19 abstaining.

A U.S. spokesman said the United States has no intention of opposing a new vote this year. He said the U.S. delegation expects the opposition to Red China will be as strong or even stronger than a year ago.

The opening session was limited to the formalities of electing a new assembly president and approving the admission of four new countries, but even on the presidential contest there was an East-West split.

Western-backed Muhammad Zafrulla Khan, veteran Pakistani diplomat, appeared sure to win over his Soviet-supported rival, Ambassador J. P. Malalasekera of Ceylon. Malalasekera, however, refused to acknowledge defeat and indicated he would not withdraw.

The main U.S.-Soviet clash is expected to develop later in the week when U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko deliver their main policy declarations.

Moscow dispatches confirmed what Western diplomats had expected—that Gromyko will lose no time in bringing up the Cuban question and renewing Soviet charges that the United States is planning an attack.

The Soviets also are expected to attack U.S. positions on nuclear testing, the latest U2 reconnaissance flights, Berlin and the Congo.

The United States, on the other hand, has indicated it will assail the Soviet Union for refusing to pay its U.S. assessments for the Congo operation and will press for assembly action to back up the advisory opinion of the World Court holding such assessments are binding.

While the Berlin question was expected to get a full airing in the main policy statements, there was no evidence that the issue would be put on the assembly agenda for action, Acting Secretary General U Thant told a news conference Monday neither Premier Khrushchev nor President Kennedy has indicated any desire to bring the problem to the United Nations at this time.

SW Bell Plans New $225,000 Addition Here

Southwestern Bell — Arkansas has announced plans to construct a $225,000 addition to the Hope telephone building and system.

Dean Brown, manager, said the 71x54 foot addition will house more switchboard positions and associated equipment.

The new positions and equipment will handle anticipated increases in long distance and local assistance calls, Brown said.

"At the end of 1951 there were only 2,500 telephones in the Hope Exchange area," Mr. Brown said. "Now there are 4,250."

Contract for construction of the addition has been awarded to Kelly-Nelson Construction Co. of Little Rock.

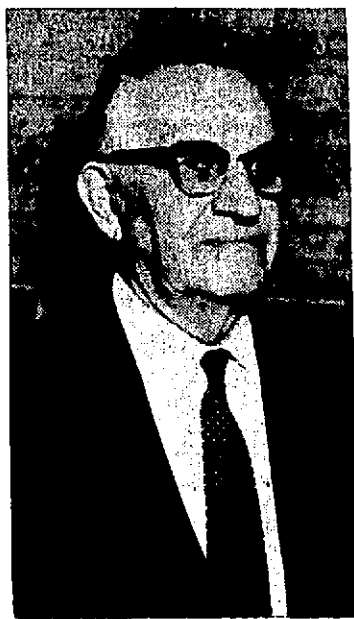

The present central office building, at 320 South Main, was built in 1951. It houses the business office, operating room, switching equipment and offices and provides storage and work space for installation and repair forces.

The addition, like the present building, will be of brick construction. Work is expected to get under way soon, and the addition should be completed and the new equipment installed by late next year.

Hempstead County Native Writes Novel About Life in Oil Fields of Texas

Editor's Note: The following press releases on Claud W. Garner are printed as received from the New American Library, New York, publishers of Signet paperbacks.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—A Texas oilman, Claud Garner, owner of five oil wells and former top hand with Murray Petroleum, has written a novel, "The Young Texans," which gives the inside story of the Texas oilfields, pulling no punches about dry holes, gushers and pumpjacks, and giving the reader a chance to go up on the derrick floor and learn for himself how a potentially big well can be killed. The book will be published as a Signet paperback original on September 20, by the New American Library of World Literature.

CLAUD W. GARNER

Garner, who was born in Hope, Arkansas, 34 miles from the Texas border, and now lives in Weatherford, Texas, says he wrote the book because "I have never read a novel about the oil business in which the reader was allowed to truly see just how wells are drilled."

His book, Garner says, has "two themes — one, a story about the oil business: the good side and the bad side; the other theme is human relations. I wanted my readers to see that the whites and Negroes even in the deep South can live together in peace and help each other."

The oilfield background of "The Young Texans" comes from Garner's own experience. For four years, he was top hand with Murray Petroleum, keeping tabs on 162 wells and making executive decisions about drilling new wells. "The experience I gained during this time gave me the factual data I needed for the book — and was better than 'doing research,'" he says.

Garner's previous book "Cornbread Aristocrat," had four printings in its Signet edition. Garner is a member of the Texas Institute of Letters.

Claud Garner

Claud W. Garner, Texas oilman and writer, was born in Hope, Ark., in 1891, a descendant of an early Arkansas family which had settled in that territory many years before Arkansas became a state. Both of his grandfathers fought with the Confederate Army.

Garner went to high school in Washington, Ark., and spent a year at Ouachita Baptist College in Arkadelphia. Too restless, however, to stay in college, he set out to get an education the hard way — through experience. His father turned over to him the management of his nine farms. Garner, after feeling the effects of a cotton-crop failure, early decided that one-crop farming was too great a risk. He persuaded a group of local farmers to try growing cantaloupes. This venture developed into the first farmer's co-op in Arkansas — the Washington Truck Growers. Further expansion of his crop-growing business brought Garner into contact with the American Fruit Growers of Pittsburgh. He joined forces with them, becoming first the American Fruit Growers fieldman in Arkansas and Texas, later sales manager and finally division manager in charge of all American Fruit Growers operations in Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas and the eastern half of old Mexico. He stayed in the fruit business until 1945.

The Garner family had always owned considerable land in Arkansas. Claud Garner wondered about the oil possibilities under this land and set out to investigate. He promoted four wildcat wells, and later drilled a well himself, striking it lucky. This one paid for itself, and he went on to drill wells two, three, four and five. They were all good — and are still producing! Since this beginning he has helped finance and drill many oil wells — experiencing his share of failures along the way. While working with Murray Petroleum he kept tabs on 162 producing oil wells, decided whether or not to drill new ones and looked after the "sick" ones and those in trouble. As he put it, it was like having 162 children! This firsthand experience in the oil business gave him the factual data for his latest book "The Young Texans," a novel set in Texas in the years 1931 to 1948. According to him, it was far better than doing research.

Garner's writing career was

DAR Essay Winner to Be Announced

Announcement of winner's in the Essay Contest sponsored by the John Cain Chapter, DAR, will be made this week, according to the Regent, Mrs. Arthur Wimmell.

"What the Constitution Means to Me" is the subject of the entries by Mrs. Roy Allison's American History classes at Hope High School. Mrs. Allison received an award last year for her outstanding work as an American History teacher.

Sept. 17-23 is Constitution Week, and the John Cain Chapter announced plans and activities for the observance at a call meeting Wednesday, Sept. 12 at the Barlow. Besides the Essay Contest, plans also include a proclamation by the mayor and making spot announcements on KXAR.

At the luncheon meeting yearbooks were distributed. They carried the National DAR Theme for the year, Prove All Things, Hold Fast That Which Is Good. Officers and committee chairmen were given instructions from the National DAR President General, Mrs. Robert V. H. Duncan.

Local Regent Mrs. Arthur Wimmell, Honorary State Regent Mrs. Charles A. Haynes and State Corresponding Secretary Mrs. George Peck reported on a State Board of Management meeting they had attended in Little Rock Sept. 6.

Questions Wisdom of Foreign Aid

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eugene R. Black, 61, retiring president of the World Bank, questioned today the economic and political wisdom of foreign aid programs sponsored by individual countries. He said many nations should pool aid funds in a vastly expanded international fund.

Black, long a vocal supporter of the U.S. aid program, gave his views in a strongly worded "farewell address" prepared for the annual meeting of the World Bank and affiliated organizations.

Black specifically suggested that the industrialized countries which can afford aid programs put a greater proportion of their aid monies into the International

Stock Show Parade Will Draw Bands

Ben Owen, chairman of the Third District Livestock Show Parade which opens festivities here Monday, Sept. 24, at 4 p.m. in downtown Hope, said he had been assured of at least six out of town bands.

He urged local organizations to enter floats in competition for the $300 in prize money. The sum of $75 has been allotted to each division. Entries should register with Mr. Owen or at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Decorations are now being put up over the city and the fair grounds are being readied.

Monday night is Youth Jamboree at the Coliseum with outstanding talent numbers by various 4-H Clubs, FFA Chapters and Boy Scouts. There is no admission charge.

Tuesday features include the Quarter Horse Show and FFA Judging contest.

Wednesday the Junior Poultry Show, NFA and Negro 4-H Club Judging.

Thursday, Junior Swine Show, Junior Steer and Fat Calf show and auction.

Friday is judging of livestock and Saturday the Sears Poultry Pullit sale.

There will be a free show in the Coliseum Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. The rodeo starts Thursday and is slated through Saturday in the Coliseum.

Zoo's Tiger Is Taking Shots

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Joe, the Little Rock Zoo's male tiger, has been getting penicillin shots every day the past week.

Zoo Director Raymond Squires says he's afraid the big cat has pneumonia, a serious ailment for tigers.

Squires said Joe is droopy, listless and has no appetite. His food consumption fell off from 15 pounds of meat a day to nothing, but is back up now to about five pounds.

Joe seems to be improving, but he still finds it difficult to breathe, Squires said.

Jones Keeps Up Attack on Fulbright

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — Dr. Kenneth G. Jones of Little Rock, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, kept up his running attack on Sen. J. William Fulbright Monday during an appearance at the Four States Fair.

Jones rode in the fair parade, waving to onlookers, and he got cheers at several points.

At a meeting with supporters Monday afternoon, Jones castigated the Kennedy administration.

Weather Eye Satellite Is Sent Up

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The sixth in a series of Tiros weather satellites rocketed into orbit today and its camera eyes went on immediate alert for hurricanes, typhoons and other storms around the globe.

The electronic weatherman shot away from Cape Canaveral at 3:35 a.m. aboard a three-stage Thor-Delta rocket. About two hours later the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced the satellite was in successful orbit about 400 miles high.

It was the 11th straight successful satellite launching for the 92-foot Delta vehicle, this nation's most reliable space booster. It also made six successful launches in as many tries for the Tiros satellite program.

The two television cameras carried by Tiros were to begin transmitting cloud cover pictures after two orbits were completed. During the early phases of flight tracking stations were to determine the precise course and how well the satellite equipment was functioning.

The NASA statement said "Tiros is in orbit and all systems appear to be functioning normally."

The satellite also could predict the weather for next week's scheduled orbital flight of U.S. astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr.

Fender Damage in Accident

Negro to Seek Office at Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Little Rock got two new candidates for the city board of directors Saturday, one the first Negro to seek a municipal office since 1951.

The Negro, Dr. William H. Townsend, 48, said he would enter the race because he felt Negroes did not have adequate representation on the all-white board.

Townsend said he had not decided which of three pending board vacancies he would seek. Samuel E. Williamson Jr., the other candidate who announced Saturday, also failed to say which position he would seek.

One white man has filed for each of the three positions up for a vote in the Nov. 6 election. Another white man, like Townsend and Williamson, has announced without specifying a position.

Filing deadline for the race is Sept. 27.

Incumbents in the three positions have said they will not seek reelection. No Negro has sought a board post since the board was organized in 1957 to administer city manager government.

Townsend, an optometrist, was born in Mississippi and reared at Earle, Ark. He started practice in Little Rock in 1951.

The last Negro candidate in Little Rock was Thad Williams, who since has moved to California. Williams was defeated for alderman in 1951.

Voters Hold Fate of Ted Kennedy

By CORNELIUS F. HURLEY

BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts voters decide today whether another Kennedy will run against another Lodge in another round of a political feud between the two families over the same seat in the U.S. Senate.

Edward M. Kennedy, youngest brother of President John F. Kennedy, is running for the Democratic nomination in today's Massachusetts party primaries.

George Cabot Lodge seeks the Republican nomination. He is a son of Henry Cabot Lodge, who held the seat at stake from 1947 until John F. Kennedy won it in 1962.

Kennedy and Lodge won the endorsements of their party conventions in June, over the same men who are their primary rivals.

Edward J. McCormack Jr., state attorney general and a nephew of Speaker of the House John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, opposes Kennedy.

Rep. Laurence Curtis, R-Mass., is running against Lodge. Curtis congressional district was eliminated in this year's reapportionment, which cut the delegation from 14 to 12.

The vote is expected to set a record, topping 1 million.

Polls open at various hours and close at 6 or 7 p.m.

Age and experience have been prime issues in both contests.

Kennedy turned 30, minimum age for a senator, last Feb. 22 just before he announced his candidacy for the seat his brother vacated on winning the presidency in 1960.

McCormack, 39 last month, is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy. He has stressed his record of holding public office for the last 10 years.

On the Republican side, Curtis, 69, cited his experience in city, state and national office as a contrast to Lodge's first try for public office. Lodge is 35.

The Kennedy-Lodge feud for the Senate seat goes back to 1961 when Lodge's great-grandfather, Henry Cabot Lodge, defeated John F. (Honey Fitz) Fitzgerald, the Ambassador J. P. Malaiseke President's grandfather, for the Senate.

The second round was the 1952 election when John Fitzgerald Kennedy evened the score by turning the younger Henry Cabot Lodge, later U.S. ambassador to

Finds Fading Memory Is a Pleasure

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the great pleasures of middle age is the discovery that your memory is slipping.

From then on you can make your life even more enjoyable if you pretend it has slipped even further than it has. Just as elderly people often pretend they are harder of hearing than they actually are.

Then you can remember only what you want to — just as old folks hear only what they choose to.

Loss of memory isn't so much a matter of physical aging in most men as it is a selective form of self-defense. It is affected by the kind of jobs they have, and how long they have been married.

In general it might be said that the more people there are who feel they have a right to tell you what to do, the earlier your memory begins to show signs of failing.

It is only by forgetting some of their insistent demands that you can remember to do some of the things you want to get done yourself. This is what is known as protective, or self-defensive, loss of memory.

Some people take an inordinate pride in their memories. They can remember all their past automobile licenses, and can recall the name and room number of every hotel they stayed in. What is worse, they like to show off this useless skill at cocktail parties after their second drink.

Such parrot-type memories are more of a nuisance than a blessing, and hardly show intelligence of a very high order. They result in a mind stuffed with nonessential lumber that should bore one's self and certainly is brought to bore others.

Many middle-aged people worry at any sign of loss of memory. The truth is loss of memory is normal, healthy, and essential. It begins at birth and continues inexorably until death.

Every day, probably every hour, awake or asleep, our crowded brains forget something they no longer need to keep—and if they didn't it is hard to see how we could go on living.

How impossible life would be to the average man if he remembered every wrong or foolish thing he had done in his long journey. Such a mountain of accumulated guilt and regret would break the stoniest back. He would have time only for remorse; none left for accomplishment.

The wise man of middle age feels a quiet sense of elation at the discovery his memory isn't quite what it used to be.

What if he no longer can work a problem in high school algebra? What if he does keep meeting people whose faces are familiar but whose names he can no longer recall? What if he did forget his wife's 49th birthday?

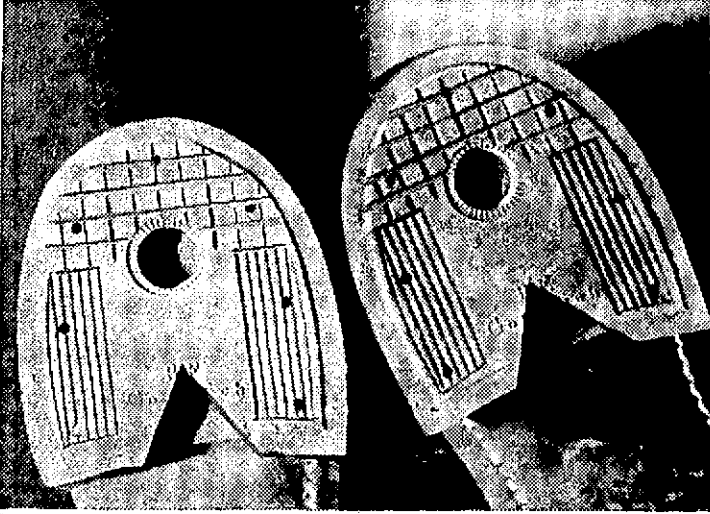

Maybe he no longer needs algebra, the names of those forgotten faces no longer are important to him, and his wife would rather he remembered their 25th wedding anniversary than her 49th birthday.

The part of wisdom in middle age is to remember what makes you feel better and if anyone tries to remind you of anything else, simply to shake your head and say, "It must have slipped my mind. It's a shame the way my memory is going."

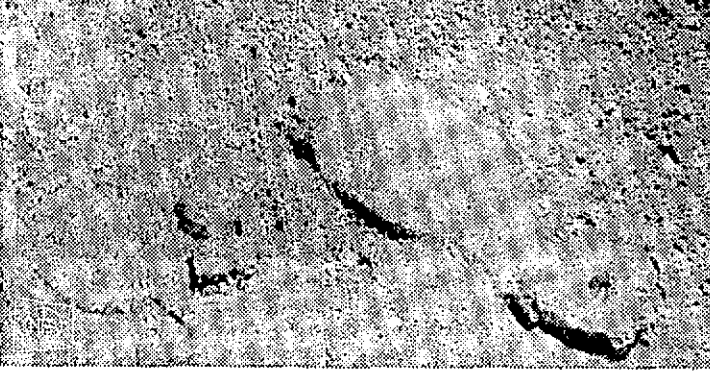

The Rock House, five miles north of Clarksville, has Indian hieroglyphics which have never been deciphered.

The U.N., out of the seat.

The third family contest was in 1960 when President Kennedy's victory was a defeat for the Republican ticket on which the former U.N. ambassador was the nominee for vice president.

Development Association — IDA.

The American banker favored multinational aid programs on these grounds:

1. Aid from an individual nation is apt to be conditional on purchases of the giver's products—an American aim because of the U.S. balance of payments problem. He said this tends to place the giver in the position of offering aid favored by private firms at home, "whether the projects are well justified or not."

2. Single-nation aid programs have a "susceptibility to political influences, whether overt or otherwise." Black called this "my most serious criticism of bilateral aid programs."

The American banker's views were certain to attract worldwide attention, and perhaps stir up a political hornet's nest at home. His address coincided with demands by Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., for a one-third cut in President's $4.8-billion foreign aid program. The House Foreign Appropriations subcommittee headed by Passman currently is considering the aid legislation.

The World Bank chief argued that IDA is a principal hope of the underdeveloped countries because fewer of these nations can shoulder the conventional loans offered by the World Bank — because their debts already are becoming too burdensome. Indeed, he said, lending by the bank may slack off for lack of qualified applicants.

IDA's need of a fiscal transfusion is one of the major topics at the annual meetings this week of IDA, the World Bank, the International Monetary Fund and the International Finance Corp.

The organization was created two years ago to channel 50-year, interest-free loans to worthwhile projects in the underdeveloped nations. The aim was to extend credit on easier terms than those offered by the World Bank, the parent organization.

through flooding.

Apparently the tunnel was not discovered by the East German border guards, Albertz said, and for this reason he gave its location only as "somewhere on the French sector border."

Albertz said this was believed to be the biggest single group to escape to West Berlin since the Communists erected the wall 13 months ago. The biggest previously reported tunnel escape was of 28 persons, while 24 fled West in a train and 14 in a river boat.

Albertz said the tunnel was "bored from the West in weeks of painstaking and patient work by young people whom we must respect." He repeated the city government's stand that it does not regard such enterprise as illegal.

The group crawled through the tunnel in a very short time, despite its length, he said, but declined to give any details for fear of helping the Reds locate it.

Mendenhall said he was looking for an enlisted man.

Four Held in Burning of Negro Church

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three white men and a white teen-ager are being held in the burning of a Negro church in racially troubled southwest Georgia.

Authorities said they admitted talking about Negro church burnings and "just decided to burn them one." They were captured by FBI agents.

Solution of the case was announced by the Justice Department in Washington Monday night highlighting racial developments in which government representatives played a considerable part.

Among them were: The federal government asked a federal court at Richmond, Va., to outlaw racial discrimination in public schools attended by children of a big Army base in Virginia.

A federal appeals court in Richmond ruled invalid Charlottesville's pupil placement plan for elementary pupils.

A Justice Department spokesman said a few U.S. marshals will accompany James H. Meredith, a 29-year-old Negro, when he reports for registration at the University of Mississippi in the next few days.

Sheriff Z. T. Mathews of Terrell County, Ga., said the four white persons held in jail at Dawson on arson charges admitted setting fire to the Negro High Hope Baptist church three miles north of Dawson in the early morning on Monday.

He identified them as Glenn Roland, 55; his son Melvin Earl Roland, 21; Marvin Allen Milner, 31; and a 16-year-old whose name was withheld in accordance with Georgia juvenile laws.

The quartet was spotted in a car near the church after the first FBI said. Later they were picked up by agents who have been investigating three other churches burned to the ground in recent weeks and the firing of shots into several Negro homes.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said his agents questioned the four persons and then turned them over to Georgia authorities because there was no evidence of federal violations.

Sympathy for Barnett, Faubus Says

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus offered sympathy to Gov. Ross Barnett for Mississippi's integration problems Monday and said Barnett might succeed if the people stay with him.

Faubus, who set the tone for resistance to integration during the Little Rock racial crisis of 1957, said he felt Barnett was sincere when he offered to go to jail rather than accept integration of the University of Mississippi.

But Faubus said he didn't think the federal government would jail Barnett. "They didn't want to put me in jail because they didn't want to make a martyr of me," Faubus recalled. "I don't think their attitude has changed."

Barnett called for all out resistance last week after a federal judge ordered admittance of James E. Meredith, a Negro, to Ole Miss.

Meredith, accompanied by federal marshals, is expected to try to enroll later this week.

While no attempt will be made to jail Barnett, Faubus said, some lesser state officials might be arrested in the dispute.

"But if nobody would register Meredith, what could the government do?" Faubus asked.

Ole Miss Officials have not said what they will do when Meredith appears.

AEA to Withdraw School Act

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Education Association will withdraw its 50 per cent school financing act before the Nov. 6 election Gov. Orval E. Faubus predicted Monday.

Faubus advanced no reason for his prediction. The AEA Executive Board voted Saturday to push for passage of the measure. Initiated Act 1, despite the mounting threat of official opposition, perhaps from Faubus himself.

The governor would not comment on the act itself. "We'll get to it when the time is ripe," he said.

The AEA circulated petitions to get the act on the ballot. It would guarantee a minimum of 50 per cent of general revenues to the public school fund.

The state Board of Education ordered a study of the act by the Education Department, which said it had serious flaws.

Last Friday the Legislative Council ordered another study after several members criticized the act.

NEW LOOK — Coming soon for some 30,000 U.S. postal clerks is this trim uniform modeled by Mrs. Bonnie Del Vecchio in Portland, Ore. Lady clerks will wear a matching Peking blue fitted jacket with a blue and/or white blouse. Male clerks also will wear a blue jacket.

New Life in Education Aid Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate conference has breathed new life into a $2.35-billion college education aid bill after some of its strongest partisans had abandoned hope for it.

The conferees reached their agreement late Monday on the only piece of legislation in President Kennedy's broad education package given any chance of reaching his desk before Congress quits.

The final compromise does not contain all the President asked, but it was closer to the Senate bill he endorsed than to the more limited House measure.

The conferees still must meet Wednesday to sign their report. Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., heading the respective delegations, said this was just a formality.

There was a possibility of floor fights on the compromise, particularly in the House. But Mrs. Green said she was confident of bipartisan support in the showdown. The House conferees approved the final product 6 to 1.

The Senate group voted 7 to 2 for it.

The break in the long deadlock over the bill — it passed the House in January and the Senate in February — came in these actions:

1. The Senate agreed to accept construction grants for private colleges but the use to which they could be put was closely restricted.

2. The House agreed to convert to student loans the funds provided in the Senate bill for scholarships.

3. The House agreed to accept the Senate allotments for junior colleges but again the use was restricted.

Sew Headquarters

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—The Kurt Smith Gas and Electric Co. announced plans Monday to build a $500,000 headquarters building on a 13.7 acre tract on Highway 22

ment on the act itself. "We'll get to it when the time is ripe," he said.

The AEA circulated petitions to get the act on the ballot. It would guarantee a minimum of 50 per cent of general revenues to the public school fund.

Last Friday the Legislative Council ordered another study after several members criticized the act.

Candidates to Open Up Campaigns

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Both Sen. J. William Fulbright and Republican Kenneth Jones of Little Rock will move out into the state this week to mark the start of serious campaigning for Fulbright's Senate seat.

Their paths cross only once—at Jonesboro—when they are scheduled to speak only one block apart Friday night.
Jones has a news conference set in Little Rock Monday to name a chairman of "Democrats for Jones." He'll spend the early part of the week in southwest Arkansas, and the latter part in northeast Arkansas, after a television appearance in Memphis Thursday.
Fulbright will be in Sharp County Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday are set aside for headquarters work. He will address a Little Rock civic club Thursday. Friday, before he goes to Jonesboro for a Democratic rally, he will speak in Weiner.

Saturday Fulbright will be guest of honor at a breakfast given by East Arkansas rice growers, then at noon he is scheduled to be back in Little Rock to address a meeting of the American Association of University Women.

Texarkana, De Queen, Hot Springs and Magnolia are on Jones' southwest Arkansas itinerary. His northeast Arkansas stops will include Blytheville and Osceola.

Students Find Bones of Dinosaur

ELIGHT, Ark. (AP)—A group of Southern State College geology students has a new weekend project—putting together a dinosaur from collected bones.
The remains of the prehistoric animal, said by Dr. John Chapman to be 75 to 80 million years old, were found by an amateur fossil collector near this southwest Arkansas town, Mrs. Marion Fike of El Dorado.

Chapman, professor of geology at the school, said the remains were found in the Brownstown Formation, a strata of dark gray, occasionally limy shale, on the Little Missouri River about eight miles from Delight. The bones are from the Upper Cretaceous Era, he said.

A group of 17 students spent Saturday gingerly stepping about the hillside, carefully picking up and shellingacking the bones to preserve them. Some are being put in plaster of paris casts.
Chapman said the remains of the animal will be brought to the college for reassembly.
Enough bones have been found to definitely identify the animal as a dinosaur Chapman said, but it hasn't been determined what kind.

He thinks it is possibly one of the swimming dinosaurs, the mosasaur, that looks much like a fish or seal.

Thus far students have found a jawbone 8 inches high and 15 inches long, ribs 3 feet long, backbone vertebrae the size of a baseball and ball and socket joints with the ball about the same circumference as the vertebrae.

Chapman said the students hope to be able to assemble the animal's remains. "But it may get to be beyond us."

He said, "If we can't do it, we'll get someone who can."

2nd Junk Yard Bill Planned

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Prairie County Rep. John Bethell said Saturday he is considering introduction of a second bill to control placement of automobile junk yards near highways.
Act 212 of 1955 introduced by Bethell, requiring that junkyards be located no closer than a half-mile to a highway, was ruled unconstitutional by the state Supreme Court last week.
The high court termed the act "arbitrary and unreasonable."
Highway Director F. R. Oliver said he would like to see the yards screened from view. Oliver said his department wasn't concerned with controlling their location unless they encroach on highway right of way. This, he said, has happened.

Display Model

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A scale model of the Dardanelle Lock and Dam on the Arkansas River will be exhibited at the Arkansas Livestock Exhibition Oct. 1-6. The 5-foot, 7-inch scale model is being constructed by Army Engineers in their spare time. It will be complete with tiny towboat that pushed eight barges through the locks.

There's a bold black-and-white look to knits this fall. Knitted mohair overblouse (left) with cowl collar goes over double knit skirt in black. Tweedy knit coat (right) in black and white has ribbed black trim. Both fashions are by Dalton of America.

What Is Status of Wife?

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: What is marriage supposed to be? I always thought the duties, responsibilities, happiness, unhappiness were to be shared.
I am 21 and have been married for a year. My husband is 29. We met at the place where we both worked. Before we married I agreed to keep on working "if" he would (1) wash the dinner dishes, (2) make the bed in the morning (3) clean up after himself (4) dump the garbage.

He agreed, but once married he broke all rules. After being called a "nag," I undertook these duties myself. Working all day and coming home to this, I was in no mood to be a sweet and loving wife. It made me even madder to see my husband nap after dinner, and I quit my job.
Now my husband allows me $25 a week for groceries, clothes, and bills. He pays for our rent, utilities, etc. But doesn't realize that I just don't have enough money. My one charge account is used for sheer necessities. I have asked my husband for an extra $10 a month for this. His answer is a flat no.

He himself is a camera bug—a very expensive hobby. Before we were married he bought equipment which cost $175 and now he wants to buy another $200 camera. Why should he have so much and I have nothing? I admit that he is good at saving money, buying everything on discount or on sale.

But doesn't it bother him that his wife is unhappy? I reason that maybe if I treat him real good and stop wanting so much he may loosen up. How long do I have to wait?—Wit's End

Dear Wit's End: You're in the same boat with a lot of other working wives. After they enjoy the sweet taste of being able to buy things with their own money, they find living within husband's income hard to take. They feel as if they've been reduced to slave status. This is one of the major problems brought on by woman's emancipation.

While marriage is a fifty-fifty proposition, it is also a lot of give and take.
You listed all the rules you set down for your husband before you were married. Did he set down any for you, and have you kept them?

You can attack your problem in one of two ways, depending on your scale of values. If you just can't do without the things you used to afford on your own salary, go back to work; perhaps you'll also be able to pay for part-time household help.

On the other hand, if you enjoy not going to an office (and lots of ex-career girls do, even if they won't admit it), make a stricter effort to stay within the sum your husband gives you. If you honestly can't keep a careful written record of your expenditures and go over it with him. Being canny, he will probably like that, and be more impressed with the black-and-white evidence than any amount of your nagging.

Dear Helen: How come kids have to be treated like dirt? We five sisters, aged 9 through 17, are in a blue funk over our mother and stepfather. They have two other children who think they own the world. If you bump into them by mistake they tell our stepfather who tells us, "You kids should be put in a home!" or "You ought to be beaten."
When our real daddy was alive we loved our parents. Now we could kill them. We girls go to the store and buy them little no errors. But this is one ball game which is just beginning.

Declares JFK Has Had Only One Marriage

WASHINGTON (AP)—A long-circulated rumor—coupled with a denial—that President Kennedy was once secretly married was published in Washington today.

The Washington Post carried an advance article from Newsweek magazine, which it owns, and which, like the Post, branded the rumor as groundless and false.
The White House, asked for comment, declined to discuss the matter today as it has in the past.
Rumors of an early Kennedy marriage have been circulated widely for more than a year. Persons or groups have distributed in various parts of the country copies of a page from a genealogy alleging there was such a marriage.

Dear Helen: I am a 14-year-old girl whose problem is friends. I go out with girls but never boys. Maybe I'm unattractive to them. I know you feel that a girl of 14 is not quite ready to worry about boys. But is anything wrong with just a nice, smooth friend, and not going steady?—Lonely evidence to substantiate the rumor.

Dear Lonely: There is not a thing in the world wrong with making friends with boys as well as girls. If you are capable of the friendship with one you are capable of it with the other.

Try to be as relaxed and natural with the opposite sex as with your own; that's usually the hitch with girls of your age. And it's not too early for you to do something about that "not attractive" label you pin on yourself. It's only human nature, whatever the age or sex, to be drawn to someone who thinks well enough of herself to put her best foot forward physically.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "Firm Friends."

Delays Action on Goldberg

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee deferred action today on the nomination of Arthur J. Goldberg to be a Supreme Court justice.
Committee aides said the nomination was not called up for a vote because printed transcripts of testimony received at hearings on the nomination were not yet available.
No date was announced immediately for another meeting to consider the nomination.
President Kennedy nominated Goldberg on Aug. 31 to succeed Felix Frankfurter, who retired from the court because of ill health.

Jones Names Women's Dept. Head

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Dr. Kenneth Jones today named a Little Rock woman to head the Democrats for Jones Committee in his Republican campaign against Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark.

Jones announced the appointment of Mrs. William A. Snodgrass, Jr., a member of the Pulaski County Democratic Committee, just before leaving for Texas where he has a speech scheduled tonight at the Four-States Fair.

Jones also distributed what he called a "for" brochure, listing 18 positive points in his program. The Little Rock orthopedic surgeon said he had been quoted for the most part on things he was against, and now wanted to make known what he is for.

Asked why he was seeking Democratic support in his campaign, Jones explained that he was Conservative first and a Republican second.

He said he expected a rise of conservatives from both parties in the November general election.
Mrs. Snodgrass, a native of Blue Springs in Bradley County, said she still considered herself a Democrat, but couldn't go along with the "liberalism and one-worldism" of the present party.

Mrs. Snodgrass said she had been active in the gubernatorial campaigns of former Govs. Frank

Asks Grazing on Idle Pastures

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Department of Agriculture announced today that it has authorized county Agriculture Stabilization Committees to permit grazing and harvesting of hay on land retired from production by USDA programs in 15 Arkansas counties.

They are Ashley, Baxter, Bradley, Calhoun, Cleburne, Fulton, Grant, Independence, Izard, Lawrence, Perry, Randolph, Sebastian Sharp and Stone.

The department said, in a telegram to Gov. Orval E. Faubus, the permission will be granted only to farmers who agree to relinquish or refund payments otherwise earned them for retiring land under USDA programs in amounts equal to the fair value of the vegetation to be grazed or hayed.

Appeals Sunday Law

MARIANNA, Ark. (AP)—The Marianna City Council has repealed a Sunday closing ordinance which has not been enforced anyhow in years. The council acted after voters rejected a new Sunday closing law at the July 31 primary election.

Marianna City Council has repealed a Sunday closing ordinance which has not been enforced anyhow in years. The council acted after voters rejected a new Sunday closing law at the July 31 primary election.

Among the points included in the brochure are:

American Group Plans Meeting

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - The American Way of Life Committee will meet Friday and Saturday in Little Rock to review progress made in preparing suggestions for teaching American citizenship. The committee, composed of public school educators, said it hopes to publish, in Nov., a guide for distribution for schools. The guide will concern the teaching of the topics of communism, fascism and other "isms" in existing social studies, history and economics courses.

The committee is headed by Mrs. Merlin Moore, Education Department supervisor. It has 11 members.

Proclamation

Constitution Week Proclamation

WHEREAS, Sept. 17, 1962 is notable as marking the 175th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States of America by the Constitutional Convention; and

WHEREAS, To accord official recognition to this memorable anniversary, and to the patriotic exercise which will form a noteworthy feature of the occasion, seems fitting and proper; and

WHEREAS, In accordance with Public Law No. 915, the President of the United States has issued a Proclamation designating Sept. 17 through 23 as Constitution Week;

NOW, THEREFORE, I Frank Douglas, by virtue of the authority vested in me as Mayor of the City of Hope, State of Arkansas, do hereby proclaim the week of Sept. 17-23, 1962 as

CONSTITUTION WEEK

In the City of Hope and urge all citizens to pay special attention during that week to our Federal Constitution and the advantages of American citizenship.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the City to be affixed at Hope, Ark. this day of Sept. 17, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred sixty-two, and the independence of the United States of America, the one hundred eighty-sixth.

Fallout Not Dangerous Over U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze says a federal board has found that radioactive fallout is not at dangerous levels in the United States at this time.

The group said it would not recommend the preventive and countermeasures taken recently when radioactivity counts shot to high levels in some areas.

The Federal Radiation Council, top-ranking government body dealing with the problems of radiation fallout, issued a report today on its meeting of a week ago.

Celebrezze said Sunday in a television interview that the council had concluded there is no great danger to the nation from fallout at this time. He heads the group.

The council's report did not mention the areas involved or the countermeasures taken.

When the count of radioactive iodine 131 in milk reached an average of 500 micromicrocuries per day during July in Salt Lake City, Utah, the dairy industry there undertook voluntary control measures.

The Public Health Service at the time said these measures included shifting dairy herds from fresh pasturage to stored feed, and diversion of some fresh milk supplies to production of butter and cheese to allow time for the iodine 131 to decay.

Last year the council set guidelines for radiation intake and established the maximum safe limit on iodine 131 at 100 micromicrocuries per day, or 3,500 per year.

"The council believes that individual fallout situations require individual evaluation before specific action is taken," the report said.

"Radiation exposures anywhere near the guides involves risks so slight that countermeasures may well have a net adverse rather than favorable effect on the public well being."

Ordeal at Comanche Wells

THE STORY: One of Rancher Underwood's cowboys is thrown in jail by sheriff Bell's men. Shortly afterwards a mysterious fire breaks out in the jail. Meanwhile Deputy Youngblood has found that several Underwood saddle horses and a pack mule are ready to travel at the local livery stable.

XIV

Youngblood repeated the information he had gathered at McSweeney's and the livery stable to the judge and the sheriff. It didn't add up to much that was definite.

"Sounds like they might be figuring on sending Ivey toward Mexico. A mule and a pack of grub would come in handy," the sheriff said.

"And Giles is supposed to help the break," the judge put in.

"Judge, I been thinking," the sheriff said. "Reckon we ought to take Ivey out of here? Move him to another jail?"

"Well," the judge laughed, "I've been thinking about it. It's a hard question. Sort of comes down to the question of whether we are able to carry out the law here in Carroll County."

"I'll go along with you, Judge," the sheriff said. "I just thought I'd bring it up."

"Then let's keep him here. I tell you what I'll do, though. Have you had any luck yet rounding up any more deputies?"

"Not a danged bit."

"Well, I'm going to telegraph Ranger headquarters, and the governor, too, and see if we can get a little help out here. You might pick out a stand-by posse of townspeople; they could be a big help if you select men who will follow instructions."

The judge seemed to be staring at something a mile away through this brass-rimmed spectacles.

"How could Giles help a jail break by getting in jail? Could he have a hacksaw blade, maybe in his belt or in a boot top?"

The judge had guessed right. When they took the boots off of Giles, who had become belligerent by this time, Youngblood saw at once that the stitching had been cut at the top of one boot.

He brought it into the sheriff's office and pulled three hacksaw blades from between the lining and the outer leather.

The deputy headed back for the Robert Lee Hotel. There were five saddled horses, one of them had been for Ivey and one for Giles. That left one for Underwood, one for the cowpoke who had been in the put-up fight at McSweeney's, and one for still another man. Youngblood felt relieved at finding the rancher eating supper with two cowpokes. He felt sure that he was facing all that there was to face right now in the situation.

"Mr. Underwood, the sheriff wants to see you."

AEA Plans to Get Act No. 1 on Ballot

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Education Association decided Saturday to proceed with efforts to get Initiated Act No. 1 adopted Nov. 6 despite developing high-level opposition.

The AEA board discussed the matter at a closed session, then scotched rumors that the AEA might abandon the proposal.

The act, placed on the ballot by petitions circulated by the AEA, would allocate a minimum of 50 per cent of general revenues to public schools. The AEA contends schools got only 43 per cent of such revenues in 1960-61.

The board said Act 1 was the only proposal advanced to correct this "unwholesome situation."

The Legislative Council Friday ordered a study of the act after several members warned that its adoption could upset the state's fiscal balance.

Perry County Rep. Paul Van Dalsen predicted flatly that it would bring on a tax increase or a new tax. Guaranteeing 50 per cent of revenues to schools would short budgets of other state agencies, Van Dalsen said.

Act 1 failed to get endorsement of the state Board of Education, which administers school matters and budgets school funds. Supporters of the act feared for a time the board would take a stand against it. Instead, the board made public a report which said the act had several weaknesses, then took no stand.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus is believed to oppose the measure.

College of the Ozarks, at Clarksville, was founded in 1891 as Arkansas Cumberland Presbyterian College.

The first county seat of Pulaski county was at Cadron now in Faulkner county.

Spahn Slows Dodger Drive for Pennant

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

It may be that those fleet Los Angeles Dodgers have been slowed down a bit in their sprint for the National League pennant. But the San Francisco Giants, on a season-long treadmill away from home, are not doing any catching up.

Behind the masterful five-hit pitching of Warren Spahn, the Milwaukee Braves cooled off the Dodgers 2-1 Monday night, dealing the front runners their second straight loss after a seven-game winning spurt.

But at Pittsburgh, Elmo Plaskett made his first major league hit, a three-run homer and Tom Sturdivant threw a seven-hitter as the Pirates whipped the Giants, 5-2. It was the Giants' fourth successive loss to Pittsburgh and their sixth setback in a row since flying out of San Francisco on the wings of a seven-victory string a week ago.

So, the Dodgers remain four games ahead of San Francisco, with the idle Cincinnati Reds now 5½ back in third. Los Angeles and San Francisco each have six home and five road games to go, while Cincinnati has four at home and six away.

In Monday's only other game, homers by Billy Ott and Ernie Banks in a five-run seventh inning powered the Chicago Cubs over St. Louis 8-4.

There were no Monday games in the American League, but that race resumes today. In key action, the pre-setting New York Yankees play at Washington tonight and Minnesota's runnerup Twins, three games behind, entertain Detroit this afternoon. Also tonight, Early Wynn of Chicago guns for his 300th career victory when the White Sox take on Boston.

Spahn, who has pitched in a lot of hard luck this season, had another mighty struggle against the Dodgers but finally succeeded in his fifth try for his 15th victory. The Braves jumped off to a 2-0 lead against Pete Richert in the second inning, then they blew other chances by stranding 11 men, including three in the second and seventh and two in the fifth.

Frank Howard's 29th homer brought the Dodgers their run with two out in the seventh; then they also failed to cash in on later opportunities. Ron Faltz drew a walk leading off the eighth and with one out, pinch runner Dick Truecowski tried to score on Maury Wills' double, only to be cut down easily on Frank Bolling's relay from Hank Aaron.

Left-hander Mike McCormick's wildness started the Giants downhill. He hit Bob Skinner with a pitch and walked Bob Bailey prior to Plaskett's homer in the second and San Francisco never caught up. Roberto Clemente homered off McCormick in the third after Dick Groat's single.

The Cubs went into the last of the seventh trailing the Cardinals 4-3 but Ott quickly made things even against loser Ray Washburn with his first big league homer. Then with two aboard, Banks whacked his 35th of the season, and pitcher Dick Ellsworth later singled in the fifth run of the rally. Ellsworth went the distance although allowing nine hits, including homers by Ken Boyer and Julio Gotay.

Weatherly, Gretel in Second Round

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—American Cup defender Weatherly and Australian challenger Gretel headed for the starting line for their second race today tossed by winds of controversy.

The official spokesman for the American team accused Sir Frank Packer, Australian syndicate head, of sabotaging Gretel's effort.

"Sir Frank has given confidence to no one and is ruining the show himself," American team spokesman George O'Day wrote in an article in Monday's Boston Traveler. "This despite the fact that he has never had any real boat racing experience."

O'Day's article went on to say that the night before Saturday's first race of the best-four-out-of-seven series, Sir Frank pulled first string navigator Terry Hammond out of the boat and replaced him with Magnus Halvorsen.

"To make matters worse," the American Olympic medalist wrote "a navigational error put Gretel out of the first race for good when she tacked away from Weatherly when both were making the first windward mark."

Informed of O'Day's article in the Boston Traveler, Sir Frank snapped a terse "no comment."

Candidate Files at Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arthur J. Jones, a retired lawyer, filed today for Position 4 on the Little Rock city board of directors, making that post a two-way contest.

Harold E. Hanson Jr., a banker, also seeks the position. Jones became the fourth candidate to file for the city board. Two others have been announced as candidates. Among the candidates is a Negro, Dr. William H. Townsend.

Construction at A&M College

MONTICELLO, Ark. (AP)—Construction was to begin today on the new science center at Arkansas A&M College in Monticello.

The contract for the $60,000 facility is held by A. F. Thomas Construction Co. of Camden.

The center will house laboratories, class rooms and offices for the departments of physics, chemistry and biology.

Medicare to Some

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Asst. Welfare Commissioner A. J. Moss said Monday that 1,372 persons over age 65 but not on welfare drew $7,508 in benefits under the medical care program in August.

The total medical program, welfare clients included, benefited 10,610 persons and cost $372,180, Moss said.

Hope Star SPORTS

Mixed 2-Ball Meet at Country Club

The first Hope Country Club mixed 2-Ball Golf Tournament will be played Thursday, Sept. 20 beginning at 3 p.m. Teams unable to play at that time may start at a later time but must complete the nine holes in order to compete for prizes.

Teams entering will consist of one male and one female. Husbands and wives may play as a team but the tournament is not limited to husbands and wives only. Only one ball will be played and members of each team will alternate shots. The lady will hit the first shot off No. 1 tee.

Entry fee is $1.50 which will cover the cost of prizes, refreshments and dinner. Persons desiring to enter should contact Mrs. Mitch LaGrone no later than 10 a.m. Wednesday. Golfers who desire to play but do not have a partner should still enter since there are several people already entered who do not have partners.

Entries are limited to club members and non-resident members (at least one member of each team must be a member).

Candidate Has Right to Contest

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Supreme Court ruled today that a candidate in a primary election has the right to contest the results of the election if he is trying to show he would have been in a runoff.

The ruling reversed and remanded a case from Conway County Circuit Court. It stemmed from the suit of Fred Porter, who filed suit following a three-man race for alderman in the third ward of Morrilton.

Porter, who ran second, filed suit against C. L. Heffelfbein, who led the race. He contested the certification of the vote and the nomination of Heffelfbein.

A motion by Heffelfbein to dismiss was granted by the circuit court and Porter appealed. Porter contended in his appeal that the court erred in holding that a candidate in a preferential primary cannot contest the election and also is holding that the cause had become moot after the general election.

Man Drowned in Lake Chicot

LAKE VILLAGE, Ark. (AP)—A 39-year-old North Crossett, Ark. man drowned in Lake Chicot Monday night after he fell out of a 15 foot sports boat, State Trooper Roy Hogg said.

The body of John D. Jackson was recovered today in about 30 feet of water by fire rescue units from El Dorado and Crossett.

Hogg said Jackson was riding in the boat with three other people when he fell overboard. Two men in the party, William H. Keen and Chester Doss of Ham-burg, jumped into the water in a vain attempt to rescue him.

The fourth person in the boat was Mrs. Doss, Hogg said. The coroner's office held an inquest and ruled the case an accidental drowning.

The accident occurred near the south end of Lake Chicot.

Bobcats Take on Smackover There Friday

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Two bitter and frustrated teams collide in the Ozarks this weekend in a game that should be interesting to, among other people, psychologists and psychiatrists.

The combatants will be Subiaco and Fayetteville, both with longings for the Region IAA crown.

North Little Rock slammed Subiaco 12-0 in the Trojans' first skirmish, and Jonesboro applied a kayo punch last week, 33-0.

Fayetteville has one victory—a 14-0 trouncing of Siloam Springs. But the Bulldogs were rolled under by region rival Harrison, 18-7, the week before.

Harrison, impressive against Fayetteville, tumbled to Mountain Home of the Class A ranks, 12-7, last week, and will go against Springdale this week. Rogers tries Berryville of Class A this week and Van Buren is idle.

In Region 2AA, there's a mighty impressive schedule for the weekend, too. Jonesboro's mighty Golden Hurricane sweeps into Stuttgart and Forrest City will try Paragould.

Among the other 2AA teams in action, Newport will take on Walnut Ridge at Newport. Wynne travels to Parkin, and West Memphis will go after a Big Nine Conference foe—Blytheville. Helena is idle.

Ronnie South's flinging arm will get a stern test against Conway's high-geared running machine, Bill Hardin, Phil Carter and Co.

Morrilton goes against Sylvan Hills, which is having first season troubles in District 3AA. In other games, Little Rock Catholic High tangles with Malvern of District 4AA. Bryant of Class A will test District 3AA's Mabelvale and Searcy will seek victory against Bald Knob. Benton will entertain Hot Springs and Jacksonville is idle.

Hope, victory over the Big Nine's Texarkana, travels to Smackover in the District 4AA game of the week. The Bobcats have eyes for the district title Camden is defending, but Smackover represents a formidable road-block.

Crossett ventures to Magnolia in another District 4AA game that shouldn't be easy for the Eagles. Camden plays host to Fordyce and Camden Fairview is idle.

There are 22 lakes in Jefferson county suited for pleasure boating—swimming, fishing, and duck shooting.

Two Arkansans Still in Meet

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—M. C. Methvin of Little Rock and R. H. (Dick) Sikes of Springdale carried Arkansas' hopes today in the National Amateur Golf Tournament.

A third Arkansan, Richard Crawford of El Dorado, lost Monday to Downing Gray of Warrington, Fla., 3 and 2 in the opening round.

Sikes and Methvin drew first round byes. Methvin plays Bill Campbell of Huntington, W.Va., today and Sikes goes against Lloyd Monroe of Caldwell, N.J.

Methvin qualified for the tournament by reaching the round of eight in last year's event at Pebble Beach, Calif. Sikes qualified as two-time winner (1961-62) of the National Public Links Tournament.

Crawford was a two-time winner of the National Collegiate Athletic Association golf championship while a student at the University of Houston.

Captains Named for First Game

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Billy Moore of Little Rock, Billy Joe Moody of North Little Rock and Ray Trail of Forrest City will be Arkansas Razorback co-captains for the Oklahoma State game in Little Rock Saturday night.

Coach Frank Broyles named them Monday and said he will select game captains through the season.

Players will name permanent captains at the end of the year, he said.

Circuit Clerk Dies

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP)—Harold Wood, Democratic nominee for a third term at St. Francis County circuit clerk, died Sunday at his home in nearby Palestine. He was 43.

Moore in Pads But Appears Sluggish

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Little Billy Moore, the quarterback from Little Rock, donned football pads and went to work in them Monday for the first time since the first week of fall football practice at the University of Arkansas.

The 17-pounder was described by coach Frank Broyles as looking:

"Overweight, sluggish, in need of work and rusty."

The gates to a fourth straight Southwest Conference championship may hinge on the little guy, so Broyles is worried.

But the head coach got more bad news Monday. Jim John, the standout junior end from Stuttgart, will not be able to play in the Razorbacks' season opener against Oklahoma State University Saturday night in Little Rock.

It was learned Monday that John suffered a chipped bone in his nose in last Saturday's game-type scrimmage. Trainer Bill Ferrell said John will not play.

Broyles has described the 6-ft., 195-pounder as "The best end prospect I have ever seen."

Broyles said either Jim Grizzle of Fort Smith or Jerry Lamb of Houston, Tex., will replace John.

The Razorbacks have outstanding quarterback prospects in sophomores.

So, regardless how rusty, Moore will be counted on to spur the Porkers against the Cowboys in War Memorial Stadium at 8 p.m. Saturday.

A fiery competitor, Moore led Little Rock Central to three years of dominance of the Big Nine Conference as a prep schooler.

As a senior for the Razorbacks, he has logged a total of about 10 minutes of contact work this fall, and the next time he sees a line-man bent on his skull will be Saturday night.

The Razorbacks are to get a scouting report on OSU today from coach Wilson Matthews, who visited the Cowboys' spring game against the Alumni. OSU won, 20-0 and Matthews is expected to outline a passing attack the Cowboys may throw against the Razorbacks.

Broyles viewed films Sunday of Saturday's game-type scrimmage. Monday he said he will stick with his first analysis of the scrimmage: A bad performance by everyone with the possible exception of Lamb and Grizzle.

"Somebody seemed to make at least one mistake on every play," Broyles said.
